

Kuriko Mizuno

She received her Master's degree in Japanese pedagogy with an ESL certificate from Purdue University. She has taught all levels of Japanese regular language courses from beginners to advanced at Purdue University and The University of Iowa.

While at The University of Iowa, she also served as a Japanese program coordinator. She has experience teaching Japanese at North Shore Language Academy in Australia and has taught in several summer intensive programs at Purdue University, Kyoto Consortium for Japanese Studies, and Sophia University. She is currently residing in Sweden, where she teaches Japanese as an Instructor at Folkuniversitetet. Her research interests include bilingual and multilingual education and translating and interpreting.

